Potential risks

Possible mortgage with no release document uploaded

High Priority

The documents mention a mortgage, loan or charge, but no release or no-dues reference was found in the uploads. It may exist elsewhere, but it was not seen.

Source: ec_mortgage.pdf, page 1

Verify: Ask for the bank's no-dues letter and the registered release deed. Confirm with the bank in writing and check a fresh Encumbrance Certificate before paying.

Due-diligence checklist

Property purchase

- Collect the registered sale deed and earlier title deeds (Document seen in uploads). These show how ownership reached the seller. A search commonly goes back 30 years. Where: Seller, Sub-Registrar certified copies.
- Get an Encumbrance Certificate up to the current date (Document seen in uploads). It shows registered transactions. It may not reveal every claim, such as unregistered ones. Where: Sub-Registrar office or state registration portal.
- Check the mutation record and current land record (Not seen in uploads). Shows the name in revenue records. It is not conclusive proof of title. Where: Tehsil, municipal office, state land-records portal.
- Check property tax is paid up to date (Not seen in uploads). Dues can follow the property. A receipt does not prove title. Where: Municipal body.

- If there was a loan, get the bank's no-dues letter and release deed (Check in person or with an office). An unreleased mortgage may affect the property. Where: Bank, Sub-Registrar.
- Have a property lawyer give a written title opinion (Check in person or with an office). Only a qualified lawyer can give a legal opinion on title. Where: Independent advocate.
- Confirm stamp duty and registration charges for your state (Check in person or with an office). Rates and rules differ by state. Where: State registration department.
- Compare the seller's ID with the name on the deed (Check in person or with an office). The person selling should be the person the records name. Where: Original ID, deed.
- Search for court cases about this property or the seller (Check in person or with an office). BhoomiCheck does not search court records. Where: eCourts services, with a lawyer.
- Visit the site and check who is in possession (Check in person or with an office). Papers do not show who occupies the property today. Where: Site visit, neighbours.

Recommended next steps

1. Resolve every High Priority item with the seller, and get the explanation in writing.
2. Get certified copies of key documents from the Sub-Registrar's office.
3. Take a current Encumbrance Certificate, and check the land record on the state portal.
4. Visit the property and confirm its boundaries and who is in possession.
5. Ask a qualified property lawyer for a written title opinion before you pay or sign.

Matters requiring lawyer verification

Inheritance and family claims, ownership conflicts, court cases, suspected forgery, and any serious title question.

This report: Possible mortgage with no release document uploaded.

Limits of this report

- Extracted ownership information is what the documents state. It has not been independently verified.
- Mutation is not conclusive proof of title.
- Property tax receipts do not conclusively establish title.
- An Encumbrance Certificate may not reveal every possible claim.
- A registered document does not automatically establish a perfect title.
- A document that was not uploaded may still exist. Its absence here proves nothing.
